

THE OFFICE OF LETTERS AND LIGHT

is proud to certify author of a

WINNER of National Novel Writing Month 2011

On November 1, you embarked on a journey into your imagination. With a suitcase packed full of creativity, conviction, and plenty of clean socks, you set off down a road never before traveled... into the realm of your novel.

There you met guilt monkeys, plot bunnies, and countless unspeakable creatures that tested your devotion to your story and called into question the wisdom of noveling at such speeds. But you pressed on, dirty socks and all—an intrepid traveler charting a path toward “The End.”

One month later, you’ve emerged into the realm of authorhood with your manuscript in hand. We’re so thrilled to see you here, and can’t say enough times how very proud we are of your epic accomplishment! Congratulations on your NaNoWriMo 2011 win, novelist.

A fresh bed, a hot meal, and eternal bragging rights await you.

Lindsey Grant, NaNoWriMo Program Director

Chris Baty, Executive Director

12/1/11

Date